Dear Colleagues:

As part of the budget planning process for Fiscal Year 2015, the NIDCR is identifying topical themes for development into research initiatives. During this process, we welcome input from the research and education communities, interested organizations, and the public at large.

To see the proposed research themes for FY 2015, as well as a description of what initiatives are and how you can provide input, click on the following link. Comments are due no later than Wednesday, September 4, 2013.

(Please note this is a separate request from the one we sent you last week seeking input for strategic planning.)
